1. Successes & Challenges

Things that went well during the two quarters we were working on this was communication and execution. I thought I did a great job not only communicating with my teammates, but our sponsor, Becca, as well. I think as team lead, I took a major responsibility and did a good job at it. I came up with things that needed to get done, assigned tasks, and made sure Becca was in the loop as well. As a team we did a pretty good job getting our goals done when needed. I thought learning Dart and the whole Flutter SDK + Firebase went as smooth as possible for a whole group learning a new technology.

Some challenges we faced definitely include Apple Developer, as we took a while working with Sanmeet early to get it working, and publication was also a long process. Another challenge I personally faced was doing push notifications. I never fully implemented the functionality, and it was a lot more than I first envisioned.
